This has for a long time been my favourite restaurant in Bondi, it's basically an institution for those in the know. Understated with a simple almost rustic setting, all of the emphasis is on the food and service. I also love that its BYO, as well as licensed. The menu is focused on seasonal foods. My go to dish is the duck liver pate followed by the duck confit when its on the menu. I have no issue scor... read more. What Madison Pacocha doesn't like about Sean's Panaroma:

Underwhelming. Where to start? First and foremost shouldn't it be a prerequisite for wait staff to be accommodating AND efficient? We were told when asking for a Chardonnay glass for our aged semillon that Sean would have us drinking out of jam jars if he could, well at $31 an entree and $45 a main you wouldn't expect such a simple request would cause such an inconvenience to our waitress, but alas it did. Secondl... read more. In pleasant weather you can even have something in the outdoor area.
