What blaedmon likes about Einstein's Relative: Very friendly service; ordered, seated. Two English teas a second later while watching a steady stream of coffee pickups coming in. Obviously a local preference amidst a city block of choice which is always a good sign when you're looking for a good place to have a quick bite. Two big breakfasts arrive shortly after, displayed on a large paddle in deference, I'm assuming, to the smaller, but comfortable, table size.... read more. In nice weather you can even eat and drink in the outdoor area, And into the accessible spaces also come clientele with wheelchairs or physiological limitations. What Jerad Considine doesn't like about Einstein's Relative: This used to be a favourite but after a recent brunch visit I won't be back. I waited over half an hour for my meal only to be told that they had a "problem" with the gas in the kitchen and that they couldn't make my meal. No other explanation or apology. I understand that some times things can go wrong but just let people know and don't leave them sitting around wondering what is going on. Coffee was Luke warm and no w... read more. At Einstein's Relative in Melbourne, there's a delicious brunch for breakfast where you can indulge feast, Additionally, they serve you typical Australian meals with products like bush tomatoes and finger limes.
