1 of the best Japanese restaurant in Sydney. It's my favourite Japanese restaurant. Great atmosphere and very cosy. Food is very authentic and fantastic! Love the mentai potato salad, conger eel, grilled fish, omelette, onigiri, everything on the menu! A great sake list, and exceptional service! The waitress really knows the menu and sake list very well. She is a great sake sommelier, her recommendation is always good! They always make you feel at home. Certainly a hidden gem! Highly recommended!. What Rod Cronin doesn't like about Nom:

I've had some great experiences at Nom but the last time I went was a bit of a letdown. The main issue was over-seasoning of the food, either with too much salt or too much white pepper. The karaage was almost inedible because of how salty it was and there wasn't any Mayo or sauce to balance it out. Some of the food also took a very long time to be served. We understand it's a small kitchen with only 3 staff but so... read more. At Nom in Darlinghurst, tasty grilled food is freshly prepared on an open flame and garnished with tasty sides, With the bite-sized, Tapas, you can't absolutely nothing wrong, particularly because there is something for every palate. Freshly harvested vegetables, fish and meat are the main ingredients in the easily digestible Japanese cuisine of Nom, You can also unwind at the bar with a freshly tapped beer or other alcoholic and non-alcoholic drinks.
