This place is not well known outside of the Adelaide African community. Hidden off Henley beach road, it's a rather large restaurant presenting East African cuisine. The food is flavoursome with very generous portions, all will a price you can't complain about. If you haven't had food from this region do check it out. They don't seek alcohol on the premises, so be mindful if you like a drink with your food. read more. The diner and its premises are wheelchair accessible and thus usable with a wheelchair or physical disabilities. Depending on the weather, you can also sit outside and eat and drink. What Хашин До doesn't like about African Village Centre Restaurant:

delicious Ethiopian cuisine served in a great atmosphere. we have really arranged the tasting dish selection of several and the injera that accompanied it was excellent. the service was sometimes somewhat slow, but the whole part of the experience. highly recommended.
