What Brenda B likes about Strangers Corridor @ Parliament House Melbourne:

Interesting venue with tasty food and a great atmosphere. Smoked chicken roll, smoked salmon tartlet, fairy(floated off the plate) cake, brownie and 2 types of scones with jam and cream. Tea or coffee. I don't usually like brownies but this one wasn't sickly or too sweet. The scones were light and fluffy. This was more of a lunch/brunch rather than 'morning tea'. It would be a good idea to book a tour for afterwards.... read more. The diner and its premises are wheelchair accessible and thus usable with a wheelchair or physiological limitations.

What Bartonbears doesn't like about Strangers Corridor @ Parliament House Melbourne:

We took advantage of Seniors Week to try the morning tea at a discounted price. The ambience is pleasant but a little formal to be expected given the historical function of the building. On our visit with friends we sat for some time and did not have an explanation of what was available, resulting in some awkwardness. The coffees and teas were good, but we were uncertain whether a second coffee was available (comments... read more). Get excited in Strangers Corridor @ Parliament House Melbourne from Melbourne for versatile, fine Chinese cuisine that's authentically cooked in a wok, Thai dishes are prepared here with the famous spices and fish sauces.
