Was good anytime, platters were the specialty and we would often roll out with more than we bargained. Cauliflower dip and babaganoush better than we have had in smae region abroad. Tabbouli also very fresh and homemade. Sweets and Turkish coffee a refreshing and satisfying end. Such a shame it closed.... boy Ahmar could cook. read more. In nice weather you can even eat and drink in the outdoor area. What User doesn't like about Baalbak Lebanese Restaurant and Takeaway:

We went along to this establishment thinking that it was a actual restaurant. We had brought one of those coupons and when we arrived we were taken aback because the place is not a restaurant but just a very basic looking corner eatery. The food itself is hit and miss; some of it is tasty and some is not. The owner was must have been having a bad day as it came across that way. A number of items that were part of the...
