I've hesitated a few times walking into Japanese restaurants in Melbourne because of the authenticity factor. Well, I just found one that has impressed me. It's without doubt a cool little place to enjoy a nice lunch and watch the traffic go by. It has a simple menu with items that cater for most people, veg and non-veg. Regular specials on the board, and the bento is neatly presented and big enough to fill your tummy.... read more. The restaurant also offers the possibility to sit outside and be served in beautiful weather. What User doesn't like about Japanese Kitchen Iroha:

I really didn't like this place. I'm Japanese, so I can say that this restaurant serves not authentic food, not fresh food, tastes not good. So much disappointed. Never come back again. Wait staff was ok. read more. A visit to Japanese Kitchen Iroha is particularly valuable due to the large range of coffee and tea specialties, there are also fine vegetarian dishes on the menu. The dishes are prepared according to authentic Asian style, Furthermore, the guests love the inventive combination of different meals with new and partially experimental products - a good example of successful Asian Fusion.
