We were staying close by and were looking for a place to eat when we found Cinnamon's on Google Maps so we thought we'd give Sri Lankan food a try as we have never had it before. What a great experience, it was a Friday night and they had an all you can eat smorgasbord. Wow, what a great way to try many different dishes. And the staff encouraged us not to over stack our plate but rather try a few things at a time the... read more. What User doesn't like about Cinnamon's Sri Lankan Cuisine:

Come here regularly and generally enjoy their curries but unfortunately you are only as good as your last performance. In fact last couple of times I have been here the beef served has left a lot to be desired- large chunks of fat and grisly end cuts- leave it out.....who eats that? Also no complimentary pappadum? Last time I visited the pappdums were burnt and overcooked. Sorry guys, your curries are tasty but a lit... read more. A visit to Cinnamon's Sri Lankan Cuisine is particularly valuable due to the extensive selection of coffee and tea specialties, on the menu there are also a lot of Asian meals. The Asian fusion cuisine is also an important part of Cinnamon's Sri Lankan Cuisine. Anyone who finds the normal and generally known menus too ordinary can here approach with a willingness to experiment and try some exciting combination of ingredients enjoy.
