This was actually my second visit to this takeaway bar (although you can eat there as they have tables) in the Dee Why Market between Oaks Avenue and Pacific Parade. I think I had Singapore noodles the earlier time which were good but this time I ordered Satay chicken. For A$8.50 you get four skewers with at least 20 pieces of chicken fried in Satay sauce plus they give you extra Satay sauce. Its a big meal for one b... read more. What

User doesn't like about Laksa at DeeWhy:

I went because I was looking for a good laksa on the northern beaches. The laksa was pretty good. However, went back the next day and had hainan chicken rice (one of my faves) - it was awful. Overcooked stringy tasteless chicken, disappointing rice, no soup. I will give it another chance and try another dish next time, but won't return if it disappoints. read more. In Dee Why, traditional menus are prepared in the kitchen of Laksa at DeeWhy with original Asian spices tasty. You can take a break at the bar with a cool beer or other alcoholic and non-alcoholic drinks. Not to forget, Laksa at DeeWhy offers naturally also Malaysian national dishes like Roti, Naan and of course also a large selection of rice dishes, Besides, the successful blend of different meals with new and partially adventurous products is appreciated by the guests - a good case of Asian Fusion.
