wow! what a fantastic night. the place was book by a friend who usually did not eat at such chic places, so I was pleasantly surprised with their choice. from the moment they get in, they get the feeling that this place is special. the service was exceptional and the food was to die. there was a lot of gluten-free options for me and started options for my dinner date. I didn't get a photo of the curry, but trust me,... read more. What User doesn't like about Joy:

not fully woven, as others were published in reviews more than a year ago, the aromen not always on my taste. some were simply too salty, others a little bland. I probably have another one, but that's my honest opinion. would have been nice to see the menu before, instead of being given, is at the end as souvenir. read more. The Joy from Ann st. serves meals that are typical for the entire continent of Europe, Additionally, they provide you authentic Australian dishes with ingredients like bush tomatoes and finger limes. If you'd like something sweet for dessert, Joy does not disappoint with its good selection of desserts, You can also unwind at the bar with a freshly tapped beer or other alcoholic and non-alcoholic drinks.
