it is a jewel in the quiet neighbourhood. that was great. we had cleaned tempura, chicken catsu teishoku, sushi rolls and boiled spinach and tofu with sesame sauce. all dishes were delicious and affordable. not many restaurants in the neighbourhood allow dogs. we had a table al fresco and we were allowed to bring our dog. that's a big plus and we'll be back soon. read more. What User doesn't like about Ronin Japanese:
Don't eat here if you expect value for money. The food tastes nice enough, very standard, but the portion sizes are about 60-80% of a normal Japanese restaurant, and they left out one of the sides. When we asked the manager about the portion size, he very patronisingly said that the serves had always been like that and pointed out the prices of the raw ingredients as an explanation. Ok, I can understand that the raw... read more.
